

Reflection Questions for Universities

Take some time to read the USER project findings and discuss the following questions with your colleagues.

1. What do the USER findings mean for universities generally?
 - a. Which findings may resonate with universities?
 - b. Which may challenge them?
2. What do the USER findings mean for individual researchers?
3. At your university, what could be done differently as a result of the USER findings, in regard to:
 - a. University research policies and procedures?
 - b. Researcher training?
 - c. Researcher supervision?
 - d. Applying to education jurisdictions to conduct research in their schools?
 - e. How researchers engage schools in research projects?
 - f. How researchers can support schools to engage with research and evidence?
4. From your reflections above (in question 3), choose one thing your university will do differently as a result of the USER findings?
5. From your reflections above (in question 3), choose one thing you as a researcher will do differently as a result of the USER findings?